Hello,

Ward 2 resident here. Mayor Her campaigned on running St. Paul “efficiently and transparently” - hopefully that transparency will extend to the full investigatory report that was presumably paid for by the city. The HR summary was too conclusive to be seriously considered. She supposedly “created and shared offensive material” yet didn’t engage in “sexual harassment of any employee.” We need the full report to understand what facts were considered in support of making those conclusions.

It’s quite disappointing to see from the mayor. Our public leaders are supposed to be the best of us. We should expect the best - and frankly, anyone that needs executive coaching and workplace conduct training, based on complaints made against them, isn’t fit to be mayor. Trying to imagine how city employees feel working for someone who had done even the most minor things from Axel Henry’s complaint is difficult. Looking forward to seeing how this can be best resolved for the city, both financially and respectfully.
